For some unaccountable reason the head of the American League has issued an order which allows Coach Jack Ryan to occupy a position in the bull pen, where emergency pitchers are warmed up, but he is not allowed to occupy a seat on the bench or to be in the coacher's box during a game. Why Ryan should be barred from the bench is not plain, for no better-behaved player ever occupied a seat there. Ryan has been in base ball too long to do anything objectionable on the bench, and it is pussling why he is barred.

Dan Moeller had an excellent day with the bat. He opened the Griffmen's first inning with a screeching double to right center, which would have counted a triple but for a clever stop by Hooper. This blow, however, was wasted, for the succeeding three batters could not bring Moeller home. But Dan got even for this ill luck and in the seventh, with the bases and in the seventh, with the bases.

Manager Carrigan still believes his team will believes his team will pelevel has some respect for the Griffmen, who, he admits are a much improved ball team over what they were formerly.

"I am confident that when the race narrows down to the real test we morning. "I believe I have the best batters could not bring Moeller home. But Dan got even for this ill luck and in the seventh, with the bases will tell."

The fact that Howard Shanks has the right spirit, plenty of backbone and ability. Griffith has used him frequently of late and he always has proved himself capable. He got two of the locals' twelve hits yesterday, and while he had nothing to do in the field he also is capable in that department.

McNally, who is covering Jack Barry's position, appears to be an excellent fielder, but he does not look impressive at the bat. At least he did not yester-

Barry will be out of the game for many days yet. He is suffering with neuralgia, and though he is with the team he is not apt to break into the line-up for some time, as his eyes are affected.

Time makes no difference in Hans Wagner. Though he is fortytwo, he still plays the game like a youngster, fields his position with match play round, July 13 to July 19, the stars and hits the ball as of old. Wagner still is recognized as the star of his team, a deserving compliment which is paid him by his manager, Jim Callahan.

The play in the June tournament is near completion. All the sixteens and consolations have at least reached the semi-final round. In the second sixteen final J. S. Perry defeated C. M. King, 2—1. Summaries:

Mitchell, judged on his first performance, when he was driven from the mound in two innings by the Browns yesterday, is not going to help the hope for the Tigers out. Joe Tinker is finding the sailing tough in the National League. He is below the .500 mark, but the situation is somewhat saved because the White Sox are down to sixth place in the American League race. Tinker, whose confidence bubbled over during the early season, has not been able to satisfy himself with his players. He has made numerous changes, but while it is conceded that there is some improvement, there is little hope of the team making good Tinker's prediction and winning the flag.

The interest displayed in the various chapters in tennis tends to assure a lively season. Many individual stars have sprung up in the various chapters, and the race for interchapter supremacy, it is thought, will be a close one. At the close of the league season an elimination tournament will be played to determine individual honors.

Other American League Games

St. Louis is not bragging about Fielder Jones' great ability as manager these days. During the winter some of the Mound city critics led their readers to believe that it was not necessary for Jones to have a high-class team, as his own strategy would offset any weakness that might be prevalent and that the pennant was assured. Jones helped Donovan that the speed of the property o this impression along by reminiscing about what he did with the White Sox in 1996, when he had a team which could not hit balloons.
